Ground Control v.1.0.0.5 CD-KEY :: 2004-08-18 :: 46 Diablo II - Lord of..At this point it's pretty clear that Dennis Solley's NFL Player Search is going to be the best football website on the Internet. For years I've been awaiting the day that he finally takes a crack at his own football statistics. Now I'm relishing the opportunity to witness his skills first hand. I'm looking forward to browsing his database of NFL, CFL and Arena stats. I love his player pages, which give you a fine breakdown of what you're looking at. His football history pages are also outstanding. But the beauty of that database is that it's searchable, something that no other website can boast. In the last few days Solley has produced this superb database of player stats that are searchable. It's an all time great site. The best part of the database is that you can see all the NFL stats for a single player. All you have to do is pick a player and then search for him. I'm particularly enjoying the options that are available if you choose to search by team. If you choose to search by period then you can drill down into the stats for each individual season, plus go back in time to see the stats of a player for a career. I was able to search for plays for a particular season. I learned that the player I wanted to research had 87 sacks in that one season. Now I can find any player who can put up a sack total of 87 or more in a single season. This is a basic player search: This is an advanced search: This is a search for one particular year: Here's another type of search that I'd like to see included: This allows you to search for a particular
